

A. The largest, twenty five dollars from one of my cousins.

Q. Which cousin?

A. I would rather not say.

Q. Isn't it a fact that from one of the relatives you got fifty dollars?

A. Never.

Q. Or ask them?

A. Never.

Q. Did you ask for fifty dollars?

A. Never for that amount.

Q. And gave you fifty dollars?

A. No. Never. That's the largest amount I ever had.

Q. You would do most of the errands around the house, anything your sister needed and family needed?

A. If they would ask me I would get them.

Q. If Mr. Hall asked you?

A. Yes. If asked. Also used to take his laundry down town.

Q. To a Chinese laundry?

A. Yes.

Q. On Paterson Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Of course, if anything was wanted in a department store you would go after it?

A. Yes. And once a month paid some bills for her.

Q. Did you at different times go to Mrs. Mills's home?

A. Not that I recollect.

Q. Never been to her home?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Did Mr. Hall ever give you notes?

A. Not that I recollect.
